

BARS, PUBS & NIGHTLIFE...

Welcome to Great Britain the country with its lovely pub-culture which is just waiting to be explored. You might have already noticed that we Brits are very sociable folk and do enjoy a great night out.

England, Scotland and Wales offer a great variety of pubs, bars and night life entertainment. All in their unique style and traditions, as well as with their own charm, anyone will find the right place – but remember drink responsibly!

Public Houses or ‘pubs’ in Britain have been a traditional meeting and socialising point for many centuries. A lot of them are steeped in hundreds of years of history and some have a few very gruesome tales to tell.

Nowadays you will find quizzes and light entertainment in a lot of pubs as well as pretty good food being served most of the day.

Bars tend to be a bit different and more of a drinking establishment with music and usually later opening hours. Alcohol can be very pricey but this varies across the country and depends on the type of establishment you are in.
